

PRESENTER PROFILE

Jonathan Hadley
Partner
DibbsBarker

Jonathon Hadley is a Partner at DibbsBarker and is one of Queensland's leading employment and health and safety lawyers, acting for a number of Australia's largest employers and government departments.

Jonathon has extensive knowledge and expertise in the litigation and defence of claims against employers, particularly in relation claims for discrimination, unfair or unlawful termination, worker's compensation and occupational health and safety contraventions.

He frequently appears before the courts, as well as the Fair Work Commission and other tribunals, to advocate for his clients.

Jonathon has been responsible for devising commercial strategies to develop workplace surveillance and workplace accident procedures, as well as advising on Occupational Health and Safety issues. In particular, he is recognised for his specific experience in the mining, traffic, construction and labour hire industries, and in relation to medium to large private and public organisations.

Jonathon Hadley is a member of the firm's Energy, Resources and Infrastructure Industry Group and Employee and Industrial Relations Services Group.
